

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 2

Pearl Jam at the Troubadour.

■ Stop the presses, hold the horses, and whatever other clichés apply: the Troubadour is presenting its second great show in the space of one month. Does this mean the hair-farming brigade will be posing elsewhere? The last fine gig, you may recall, was Mary's Danish's four-night recession-buster. The upcomers are Epic recording artists Pearl Jam — grief-stricken fans of Mother Love Bone will be lining up 'round the block for this offshoot group. With a new album and a new singer, Pearl Jam is the closest thing to the heaven that MLB's old singer currently resides in. Lovers of Seattle boogie will be cramping the Troub, and as that tends to be the college-kid music of choice these days, you'd best bust a move (or sub-a-pop) over there early. (Johnny Angel)

Pearl Jam