

SUNDAY

Pearl Jam returns to New Orleans

After taking on Ticketmaster, battling illness and enduring numerous delays, Pearl Jam will finally return to New Orleans Sunday night to play a sold out show at Tad Gormley Stadium. The outdoor show will begin at 7 p.m. with The Ramones as the opening band. Sunday's show was rescheduled to replace the canceled fourth of July show. This summer's tour was canceled when lead singer Eddie Vedder became sick and independent concert arrangements were coming apart at almost every seam. But with a revitalized tour underway and its feud with Ticketmaster patched up for now, shows from this tour are receiving rave reviews. And if you can't make it, read the Tuesday, Sept. 19 Entertainment page to find out if Vedder and co. live up to all the hype.